Desktop Design, Support, and Implementation

Dynamic hosted desktop solutions from Merino Computer Concepts.

Are you looking to add to your organization's computing, but are stymied by the cost of new hardware? The technology professionals at Merino Computer Concepts can present you with options. We can design and implement a virtual desktop solution that allows you to get the software that you need to succeed, without having to pay the often enormous upfront costs that are usually associated with buying new hardware.

Centralized computing has been available for 20 years, but today's virtual desktop infrastructure (VDI) can present your organization with a dynamic software-delivery system that are conducive solutions when attempting to build an efficient, productive business. The most advantageous aspect of this solution is the cost savings that centralizing your company's computing environment will present you without experiencing the perils of costly downtime, while being given the ability to recycle your old hardware as thin client technology.

Don't Waste Money on Desktop or Workstation Upgrades

If replacing your company's hardware is becoming an expensive endeavor, you don't have to scale back with a virtual desktop.

If replacing your company's hardware is becoming an expensive endeavor, you don't have to scale back with a virtual desktop.

With virtualization becoming commonplace as a cost-effective solution, many organizations are migrating over to this form of computing. Some of the benefits that businesses can see from doing so include:

- Dynamic computing environments with all the software your organization needs to be successful.
- Secure access to software and company files from anywhere at anytime.
- Significant reduction in downtime.
- Flexibility to add or subtract the computing interfaces you need for your organization.
- Allows your organization the ability to repurpose your hardware.

Managed Computing Environments Built Specifically for Your Business

Look no further than Merino Computer Concepts for the construction of powerful and cost-effective computing infrastructure.

At Merino Computer Concepts, we can provide you with the flexibility of a hosted desktop solution. The hosted desktop environment presents many choices in the manner in which your organization goes about its computing. All the applications your staff needs to be successful are housed in a dynamic virtual desktop that we will monitor, manage, and maintain. Your network has never been so secure. There is a reason that over half of businesses are either using, implementing, or considering a switch to a virtual desktop solution to get the most out of their IT budget. Save money and forget those hardware costs with MCC's desktop solution.
